

PARTNER AWARDS

The Wildlife Habitat Council has partnered with different organizations to create awards for outstanding bat, pollinator, prairie, upland, and wetland management. Certified programs can submit applications for these awards annually, and the $100 application fee* is waived if the partner award application is submitted with a *Wildlife at Work*SM or *Corporate Lands for Learning*SM application.

Fairmount Minerals, Ltd.
Hager City/Bay City

Bats' Best Friends ★New Award★

The Bats' Best Friends Award is awarded by Bat Conservation International and the Wildlife Habitat Council in recognition of high quality programs that enhance or restore habitat for bats and demonstrate an ongoing commitment to bat conservation through active management of bat habitat.

The Pollinator Advocate Award is awarded by the North American Pollinator Protection Campaign and the Wildlife Habitat Council in recognition of high quality programs that follow the Pollinator Friendly Practices Guidelines and implement land management practices to promote and conserve pollinator populations.

Eli Lilly and Company
Tippecanoe Laboratories

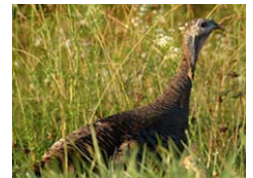

Prairies for Tomorrow Award

The Prairies for Tomorrow Award is awarded by Pheasants Forever, Quail Forever, and the Wildlife Habitat Council in recognition of high quality programs that restore and manage upland or prairie habitats, which are important habitats for a diversity of wildlife species including pheasants, quail, and a number of other wildlife species.

Upland Wildlife Management Award

The Upland Wildlife Management Award is awarded by the National Wild Turkey Federation and the Wildlife Habitat Council in recognition of high quality programs that enhance upland habitats. Projects that improve upland habitat include forest restoration, prescribed fire, mowing regimes, and the planting of native grasses and oak trees.

General Motor Company
Spring Hill Manufacturing

Ontario Power Generation
Darlington Nuclear

Wings Over Wetlands Award

The Wings Over Wetlands award is awarded by Ducks Unlimited, Inc. and the Wildlife Habitat Council in recognition of high quality programs that create and protect wetland habitat for waterfowl and other migratory birds. Wetland conservation and restoration projects benefit waterfowl, amphibians, plant communities, and a host of other wildlife species.

* $100 is the application fee for WHC members. The non-member application fee is $200.